

She swings the string of pearls on the corner
 The street lights reflect the light in the water
 The string it snaps and the pearls go sailing
 And they splash and bounce and roll 'cross the wet street

As she bends to chase the pearls, a car swings 'round the corner
 She darts from the eyes of the panics truck driver
 Who's racing to the delivery room
 'Cause in the back seat his wife is busting out of her womb

And the sack breaks and out come the Siamese Twins
 Who grow up to become the first President
 With two heads,
 Are better than one

He puts his heads in his hands says I got to put my heads together
I can become the best President ever
 And not just President,
 Fend for yourself

Interlude: / A D A - / /

Signs his name, takes the blame for all of the names
 With no shame in their beliefs, they adjourn
 And they leave and in walks a man
 With a broom and a knife and blood on his hands

And he sweeps everything under the rug
 And goes home to his kids and gives them a hug
 But his wife was not there, she had just left a letter
 That said, "You'd be much better off without me"

Interlude

Now his wife took the train to her ex-lover's funeral
 Who died in the bathroom, hit his head on a urinal
 When they got together, the knowledge was carnal
 And the widow was at the funeral and they had quite a cat fight

And they fell into the hole where the casket was resting
 And the preacher just left in the middle of the service
 'Cause death was one thing but women made him nervous
 And he ran to his car and he drove 'round the corner

Interlude

Then something in the street caught the light in his eye
 He pulled over, reached down and picked up a pearl
 From the gutter and he didn't know what to think
 And he brought it home and washed it in the sink

And he gave the pearl to Sister Mary Teresa
 Who could not accept it so she gave it to Lisa
 A young prostitute who was missing a pearl
 On the necklace that broke late last night
